

World Heritage Day
Celebrating Agricultural Heritage
April 17th and 18th, 2010

Photo Courtesy of Jane Cayford

Nomination Grand Pré is celebrating World Heritage Day and this year's theme is Agricultural Heritage. World Heritage Day is an event recognized by UNESCO. See an outline of event highlights below...

Saturday, April 17, 2010

Expert Symposium—Free Admission!!

Time: 9:00am—5:00pm (Lunch on your own)

About: International experts from Britain, Germany and the Netherlands, as well as national and local expert presentations on protecting Agricultural Heritage.

Location: Acadia University, K.C. Irving Environmental Science Centre

Wolfville Historical Society's—Annual Spring Dinner

International Guest Speaker: Alexandra Kruse, on “Agricultural landscapes and heritage in other countries – examples of Europe”

Time: 6:30pm for 7:00pm

Cost: $35

Contact: Marianne Gates for tickets 678.2298 or Beth Keech 542.2659 on or before April 12, 2010

Find out More:

For details about events and updates, stay posted through our website:

www.nominationgrandpre.ca

Contact Information:

Amelia Awalt

Communications

Nomination Grand Pré

Ph: 678.1341 or 670.6453

E-mail: aawalt@kingsrda.ca

Sunday, April 18, 2010—Community Celebration of Agricultural Heritage

(Free tours of the Harriet Irving Botanical Gardens—10am-12noon Acadia University)

Community Celebration Location: Grand Pré National Historic Site of Canada

Time: 12:00noon—4:00pm - Free Admission all day!

Activity Highlights:

- Exhibits including heritage museums, artefacts, art displays from the Evangeline Artist's Cooperative, savour samples of local food and beverage, and much more!
- Enjoy the oral tradition of storytelling, Charlie Curry and Robert Palmetter will present: “A spoken history of working on the Dykes and the local history of the area” at 12:30.
- Julian Gwyn, author of the Planter's Township Series will do a book signing from 1:00pm—2:00pm
- A multi-media presentation “Come Hay or High Water” a collection of the Acadia University archival materials highlighting the environment and agriculture of the Eastern Annapolis Valley.